List of emotions

Playlist activity

Create a playlist of the songs that support you when you feel each of the Gateway Emotions (three songs for each):

When I am frightened, I listen to: ~~orchestra~~ orchestra

When I am sad, I listen to: pop

When I am happy, I listen to: pop

When I am angry, I listen to: pop

How do these songs support you e.g. calm you down, cheer you up?

isn't fast

Hayley is very proud of you for working as a team!

Today, I was partnered with Riley.

Jana's online identity

Text to a friend:
I hate that new girl Chloe, she looks weird. Those eyebrows! Bad skin and needs foundation. Gross! 🤢

Text to Chloe:
You looked so cute in that top today. 😊

Toby's online identity

Toby's Instagram profile:
What's up? 🤔

Instagram photo:

Toby's text to a friend: Sophie waz lookin hot. She's my babe 😍

Toby's text to his Mum: Hi Mum I'll be a bit late today. Love u ❤️

Babel's online identity

Babel's message to an online gamer:
Hey u gr8 at this! Want to PM to share some tips?

Gamer's reply:
Y not bro

Babel's PM:
How old R u?

Gamer's reply:
11

Babel's reply:
Me 2. Wat school do u go to? Send a pic?

Isaac's comments made during this task:

Jana seems sassy. Toby is hard on the outside and soft on the inside. Babel's using the gamer to get more information.

They were not able to complete this due to not being aware of things on social media that is linked to them.

Create your own online embarrassment timeline

- Mark on your timeline things in your past that may have been shared on social media that you would be embarrassed about now
- Mark on your timeline things that have been recently shared that might cause you embarrassment in the future

My online contacts

In two minutes, list as many different people who you interact with online.

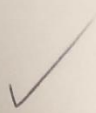

How many can you come up with?

Who has the biggest contact list in the class?

Is it important to have as many contacts as possible?

I have no contacts online and it is not important to have as many contacts as possible.

Being Me in My World

What a Mess! - Ages 8-9 - Piece 5

For a science project the children were put into groups and asked to make models of all the planets in the Solar System. How many of the planets can you name?

The children were allowed to choose what materials they used and had a whole day to make the model in school. The children in 'Orange Group' found working as team difficult sometimes.

- Some of the children were quiet and didn't speak up about their ideas.
- Others always wanted their ideas to be chosen.
- Sometimes the children felt that one or two of the others were too bossy.
- Some children in the group were frustrated because others didn't listen.
- Some children found it difficult to stick with a plan because it wasn't their idea.
- Some children sulked or got in a temper when they didn't get their own way.

Today was no different! It took two hours before the children decided on the materials to use for their planet models and in the end their teacher had to come and sort out the problem.

Because they were late starting and disagreeing so much, the group didn't come up with a plan about who was doing which job in the team. At lunchtime they realised that they were all making the same planet. They had another disagreement about whose model was the best and should be used. One of the children deliberately spilled paint on a model so it was ruined and couldn't be used. Nobody was talking to each other and everyone was in a bad mood.

They still had all the other planets to make in the afternoon and were really struggling with the task.

Can you help them sort out this mess?

I understand how groups come together to make decisions

MC

We came up with these ideas
altogether 😊

→ "stop shouting"

→ "put names in a bowl to pick a name"

→ "listen to the teacher and each other"

→ "pick up the paint"

Pick and mix activity

Mo's date bought her popcorn but actually she would have preferred pick and mix.

Individually, choose five of the above sweets that you would put in your pick and mix. Compare with a partner. Have they chosen the same? ☒ NO ☒

Feeling the pressure?

Mo is 12 and has been invited to the cinema by someone in the year above. Mo really likes them and their families are friends. Should she go?

Mo arrives at the cinema and is very impressed to find her cinema ticket, popcorn and a drink already bought and paid for. Do you think Mo's date is being thoughtful and respectful?

When Mo looks at the screen number, she realises that it's a zombie movie and a 15 certificate. Mo hates horror movies because she gets nightmares. Her date loves horror and has been excited to see the film for ages.

What should she do?

Isaac's comments: I would watch the start of the film even though it is an older film.

make an excuse whilst it is on

Design your ideal group

If you could make up your ideal friendship group, what would it look like?

Ages 11-12
Piece 3

Things you would like to have in common be funny

NOT be mean resilient

Differences you would like between people in your group e.g. a person who is more organised, someone who is good at cheering others up...

cheerfulness
gender
good at making games

Three group rules to maintain friendship

be kind
be helpful
don't tug the book by its cover
